

The Great Egg Race!

Today, we wrapped hard-boiled eggs in different materials and had an egg race down our grassy bank. We timed how long it took for the wrapped eggs to reach the bottom. We learned that the thicker, more bumpy materials such as cotton wool and bubble wrap slowed the eggs down. However, we agreed that this was not a fair test due to the length of the grass and the different force children put into rolling their eggs.

