

Science- exploring circuits

Today we stepped up our work on circuits by bringing in more components into a circuit, for example trying to get a bulb to light and a buzzer to sound, as well as introducing a switch to control whether the circuit was complete or incomplete. This proved tricky, but the class demonstrated fantastic perseverance which resulted in success!

