Please have a look at <https://www.pobble365.com/the-forbidden-tower/> or see the pages below. I would like you to look carefully at the picture and read the beginning of a story about the picture. Then I would like you to carry on the spooky story, making sure you add lots of tension! There are also a couple of things I would like you to include so check what those are below!

Art

I would like you to design and make your own African mask. Random, but I thought it would be a bit of fun for a Friday ☺. Please see the attached pictures below for inspiration. Try and make your mask 3D too by layering the materials for the different features.

PE/Games

I wondered if you could help me out? So assuming that you do come back to school in June...we will need some 'socially distancing' PE ideas and games to play at break time/PE lessons! What ideas can you come up with for a group of about 15 children? Let me know on Seesaw!

The Forbidden Tower

Try to include these features in your writing:

Can you include a complex sentence containing a main clause and a subordinate clause?

Can you separate the clauses using a comma?

Can you use one of the following conjunctions to link your clauses: but, or, yet, so? E.g. This had once been a happy place, but now everything had changed.

The night was still. Not a breath of wind could be felt. An eerie silence filled the warm evening air, broken only by the sound of the crow's wings flapping as it returned to its nest with food. Combined with the ghostly silhouette of the tower and the rickety pathway that led to it, the ominous silence made Lucy nervous. She felt a prickle on the back of her neck as she thought about what she might find inside the tower, and what might be lurking in the darkness around her. Her heart began to thump inside her chest, seemingly matching the beat of the crow's wings.

Lucy had always been slightly wary of crows; they had sooty, black wings, piercingly sharp beaks and menacing, staring eyes. The crow had settled down in one of the gnarled branches of a nearby tree. She thought it was watching her. Surely it wasn't though? Crows didn't do that. It must have been her imagination.

Plucking up all of her courage, she approached the stairs. They looked rotten and crumbling, as if nobody had set foot on them for years and years. The crow was still staring at her, and had tilted its head to one side as if pointing its beak towards the tower. "What was this crow up to?" she thought to herself.

"Are you trying to warn me about something?" she asked the crow. The crow did not respond, only shuffling its feet slightly on the branch, head still tilted to one side. She frowned. "Of course you're not trying to warn me about something, you're just a stupid bird." Her eyes left the crow and she ascended the first few steps on the rickety path towards the tower. "It's just a silly bird." Lucy muttered to herself under her breath. "Don't be such a wimp."

The crow watched as she left, and smiled. A wicked, cruel smile accompanied by a cackling laugh. "Silly, silly girl!" it squawked. "I must tell the others she is coming." The crow took off into the night...

Can you continue Lucy's story as she visits the Forbidden Tower? Where was the crow going? What would Lucy find inside?
