

Reception had great fun working in teams to build a house for the Three Little Pigs. They had to decide which material to use to build their house and work collaboratively to build them. Then the hairdryer appeared – we used this to see which the strongest material was. The children were excellent at making predictions and enjoyed carrying out the experiment, well done Reception!

Duplo was the strongest material!

Straw was the weakest material!

