

Beautiful Butterflies

We have been learning about the life-cycle of a butterfly in our science lessons. Then, to celebrate David Attenborough's 100th birthday, we completed some tape resist art work of Attenborough's black-eyed satyr - a butterfly named in honour of David Attenborough in 2015. In our Forest School session, we enjoyed using hammering plants onto material to create beautiful patterns which also made beautiful butterflies.

